PERSONAL PROFILE

I'm an award-winning creative producer based in Washington, DC. I have 15 years of experience in creating visual stories, advertisements, and documentaries. I do it all: I write scripts, direct, edit, and do high-quality production. I'm the founder of Dot Lemon, a production company that provides different media and commercial services through storytelling. My passion is to capture people's stories, highlight their emotions and feelings, and make them visible as individuals with unique stories in DC. Following that passion, I created the DC Zesty Story project to bring unique stories from all over the DMV area.
